BROOKVILLE SUPER-QUALITY ROSES

BROOKVILLE NURSERIES, Rose Growers
BROOKVILLE, N. Y. (P.O. Glen Head, N. Y.)

We cordially invite you to visit our rose fields at anytime. Our plants will tell you a better story than we can with words.

The only way you can have success growing roses is to be sure that the stock you buy are healthy field grown plants entirely acclimated to your particular weather conditions.

We highly recommend Fall planting because the plants will get better established during the winter. When this is not possible, plant early in Spring. Our roses will grow in any good garden soil. A good top dressing of cow manure about three inches thick is essential in Spring; spade it under.

Thorough spraying is very necessary once a week from the time the foliage appears until frost. We have found Tri-Ogen rose spray very effective.

In November the bushes must be mounted up with soil about eight inches high and then covered with rough manure or other material. About April 1st gradually take off this material and cut the bushes back to within 4 or 5 inches from the level of the ground.

Prices except where otherwise noted for super grade stock are 65 cents each, $50 per 100.
